The Long Range Transportation Plan

Public comments needed during last meeting/open house round

INCOG, in cooperation with local communities, has planned a series of public meetings to review the draft Destination 2030 Long Range Transportation Plan.

Four focus meetings and 11 community open house meetings will be held this May to discuss elements of the plan, which looks 25 years into the future to anticipate transportation needs for the Tulsa Metropolitan Area.

The combination of focus meetings and community meetings provides a convenient means for businesses, organizations, and residents to attend a meeting near them that focuses on their interest.

Tim Armer, INCOG Transportation Planning Manager, said input from residents is vital to the planning process.

"Public comments ensure we have the most accurate and complete public information, which is used to plan the future transportation system.

"This is a unique opportunity for people to have a direct role in forming the future of our community."

After the public meeting process is completed May 18, the plan will be finalized and submitted for approval by INCOG's Board of Directors.
